More Than 200 Officers
Mobilized; Black Sedan Sought

(By Associated Press)
DESHLER, O., May 2.—Four
armed men held up the City State Bank Co. here
shortly before noon today and
scooped up $1,500.
The robbers escaped in a black
sedan toward Defiance.
Coopering with coolness and precision, two of the men entered the bank about 11 a. m. brandishing revolvers and scooped the money into a suede zipper bag. They made no effort to enter the vault.

Highway Patrol Mobilizes
While two of the men obtained
the money, a third stood guard at the entrance with a sawed-off shot-
gun. The fourth waited in the automobile, which was parked nearby.
The state highway patrol mobilized
more than 200 officers in northwestern Ohio, Indiana and Michigan by broadcasting an alarm. All roads in the district were being patrolled.

T. R. King, cashier of the bank,
and Dr. W. S. Gehrett, a customer,
were forced to stand against the wall during the holdup. Three other employees also were menaced. All
were forced to keep their hands
down.

King said the bandits were "very nervous, business-like and appearing to be experienced." He estimated the loss at $1,500.

The Ohio Bankers Association requested the bank was insured.
The robbers, ranging in age between 22 and 25, were well dressed.
Two appeared to be foreigners.

Sheriffs, constables and state
highway patrolmen, directed by the state police radio broadcasting
station at Findlay, spread a net
throughout the district.
Guard Border Roads
State police of Indiana and Michigan were guarding border roads.
The other three employees E. H.
McIntosh, R. H. Blankenmeyer
and H. DeHose, were forced to remain behind the cashier's cage during the robbery. King and Dr. Gehrett stood up outside the cage.
A car answering the description
of the one used in the holdup, was seen changing license plates six miles south of Deshler, the state highway patrol reported.

Rev. Allen Rickert's Widow, 84, Is Dead

Mrs. Sarah Lehman Rickert, 84,
widow of Rev. Allen Rickert, died Wednesday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harvey Metzler, on the Canfield rd., following a long illness of complications.
She was born in Columbiana
county Dec. 23, 1850, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lehman. She is survived by three sons, Rev. Edwin Rickert of Coatesville, Ind., I. A.
Rickert of Youngstown and Rev.
Harvey L. Rickert of New Waterford; three daughters, Mrs. Ira S.
Johns of Goshen, Ind., Mrs. Harvey Metzler of the Canfield rd. and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Hollibaugh of Columbiana; 23 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. Her husband died a year ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Rickert celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary two years ago. She was a member of the Midway Mennonite church.
Funeral service will be Saturday
at 2 p. m. at the Midway church
in charge of Rev. A. H. Stener.
Rev. Enos Deshler and Rev. Paul Yoder. Interment will be in the church cemetery. Friends are asked to omit flowers.

AUTO SALES IN COUNTY JUMP

Sale of 345 Units Last
Month Is Gain of 76
Over March

A total of 345 new automobiles
and trucks were sold in Columbiana
county during April, setting a new high for monthly sales of new motor units, Clerk of Courts T.
Vaughn Yates disclosed today.
The previous high was March last
when 24 units were sold, or 241
pleasure cars and 50 trucks. April sales show 317 pleasure cars and 28
trucks or a total of 345 units, an increase of 76 units over the March sales.

In addition, 855 bills of sale for used cars were filed. Receipts from filing 1,200 bills of sale was $480.
Between $175,000 and $200,000 was spent for new cars and trucks in the county during April, Yates said.
Distribution of pleasure car units
show: Ford, 107; Chevrolet, 70; Plymouth, 47; Oldsmobile and Dodge,
18 units each; Pontiac, 16; Buick
10; Terraplane, Studebaker, six
units each; Packard, five; Chrysler,
Graham, three units each; Hudson,
DeSoto, two units each; Nash,
LaSalle, one unit each; Harley
Davidson motorcycles, two.
New truck distribution shows:
Ford, 12; Chevrolet, nine; Dodge,
three; International, two; Diamond
T and Reo, one unit each.

First Annual State-Wide Member-ship Enrollment To Be Conducted During May

Local support for the Ohio Society for Crippled Children's first annual statewide membership enrollment program to be conducted
during the month of May will help
in meeting the challenge to solve
the future problem of the state's physically handicapped, said L. P.
Metzger, Salem, chairman of the Crippled Children's committee of the Rotary club.
This statement cited "The Ohio
Society for Crippled Children
serves as an organized constituency
to help the handicapped and as a general clearing house for stimulation and coordination of work in the interests of the cripple."
"The society endeavors to bring about the cooperation of private and public agencies in order to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number of cripples. Ohio's plan for restoration of the cripple
has been tried for 16 years and has found sound and has since been used as the model for similar programs in other states."
"More attention must be given
to vocational placement of the adult cripple, the crippled child of the past, who is entitled to become a self-respecting and self-supporting citizen. The challenge is to make the work for the physically
handicapped more effective and
this requires general cooperation."

A state-wide enrollment program
is now under way. Persons desiring to assist the program may forward
their names, addresses and contributions directly to the state headquarters of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children, 3033 A. I. U.
building, Columbus. Enrollment
may be made in these classifications: Junior, $1; annual, $5; contributing, $10; donating, $25; sus-
tainer, $50; patron, $100; and life
member $500.

8-Month Schools
To Close Tomorrow

All eight month rural schools in the county close tomorrow. Those schools having a term of eight and one-half months will close May 17.
The nine month schools will close
May 24.
"We will have no annual declaring contest this year," County Superintendent W. E. Roberts said
today. This contest has been held for about a score of years, the first
contests being featured in the old
grandstand at the county fair grounds. The plan was suggested by the late Charles S. Speaker, who contributed prize money to winners.
The scheme was suggested by Mr.
Speaker to promote public speaking
among children.

Prime Minister Will Lay

LONDON, May 2.—The British government today accepted Germany's challenge to an armaments
race—but was reported to have decided on a new effort to win the Reich's cooperation in a general
security system based on disarmament.
Expand Air Program
Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was expected to lay this program before the house of commons
today with an announcement that Great Britain's air program will be accelerated and expanded.
The enlarged aerial defense plans,
which would redeem the pledge
made in 1934 by Stanley Baldwin to keep Great Britain's air force
ahead of that of any other nearby
power, were said by an authoritative source to contemplate the expenditure this year of $25,000,000.
Sir John Simon, foreign secretary,
planned to join the prime minister
in presenting the government's
program to the house of commons.
The occasion elected was the opening of the debate on foreign affairs.

As a prelude to the commons debate, Lord Stanhope undersecretary of state for foreign affairs,
delivered an unexpected attack on Lloyd George for his part in formulating the treaty of Versailles.
"Whoever might be responsible for having won the World war," Lord Stanhope said, "the person responsible for losing the peace treaty is Lloyd George. There is no one living who would not rejoice to see that treaty drawn up on quite different lines."

Police Arrest 25.
April Record Shows

A total of 25 arrests were made by the police department during April, the highest since the first of the year, Police Chief Ralph N.
Stoffor reported today.
While February had 20 arrests,
there were only 5 arrested in January and 18 in March.
The April arrests included: Intoxication, 8; parking on public
highway, 1; illegal train riding, 1;
passing worthless check, 1; disorderly conduct, 2; driving while in-

FARMSOAKED
BY HEAVY RAIN

Fall of 1.62 Inches Recorded by Observer
Copeland

Rain in abundance last night
and today soaked farm lands
around Salem, in fact, all of Ohio
was drenched in a downpour, dim-
ming memories of the 1934 drought
and producing visions of bumper crops this season.

Downpours of up to 2.67 inches
were reported by the U. S. weather bureau. The moisture visited every part of the state and continued today, threatening to send rivers high
in their banks.

Additional rains were forecast
for tonight and Friday morning.
Rainfall Is 1.60 Inches
Lawrence H. Copeland, of Mill-
port, Columbiana county's cooperative weather observer, reported a rainfall of 1.60 inches in this section, the heaviest since April 4, 1934, when 1.92 inches fell.

Springs and streams were reported swollen around the countryside and Mr. Copeland added that "I believe this rain, which has not yet ended, will hold us over for three or four weeks. The soil is well soaked."

Farmers, too, pointed out that heavy rains would help eliminate the bothersome much bugs. The heaviest rainfall in Ohio was recorded at Sidney where 2.67 inches
soaked into the ground.

Weather Observer Copeland
pointed out, however, that despite last night's downpour, rainfall in Columbiana county still was 1.28
inches below normal. In April 3.15 inches of rain fell.

The observer, in his monthly report, said concerning crops that the current week will witness completion of sowing of oats. The season is two weeks behind schedule. Pastures throughout the county are short, and live stock was on dry
feed all of the last month.

Wheat in Good Condition

Wheat plants are in good condition and present indications point
to a large yield. During April,
vegetation was practically at a standstill, due to insufficient sunshine and low temperatures, and
especially during the first two weeks of the month.
Prospect for a large yield of fruit
in the county, based on existing condition of plants, is good. A large bloom on all fruit trees has been generally reported throughout the county. Planting of corn will begin about May 10.

Addresses Given By Grange Leaders

Talks by Mrs. D. R. McConnell,
chairman of the state grange home
economics department, and D. R.
McConnell, of Greenford grange
were features of the meeting Wednesday evening of Perry grange.
Mrs. McConnell talked on home economics and Mr. McConnell
spoke on "Horticulture" and discussed current events.

The session opened last night
with a song by the grange, "Dwelling in Beulah Land," following
which members responded to roll
call with "Activities. Going on in Different States During the Month
of May." Mrs. Elfred Patton read
an essay, "Youth and Old Age." A vocal duet was offered by Wilma Bricker and Billy Hinchliff, "Isle
of Capri," with piano accompaniment by Alice McDonald. Poems were given by Henrietta and Eleanor Hilliard and Joan Hinch-
cliff.

Young people of the grange will have their meeting Friday night.
Perry grange will meet again
May 15 at which time Willow Grove grange will present the program. A good attendance at that time is desired.

Begin Examination Of County Records

The biennial examination of official records of Columbiana county
started here Wednesday under the supervision of State Examiner Fred

assistant.

Preston has been working on Ma-
honing county records for a year,
and two weeks ago Walker was transferred from temporary assignment in the county relief office to tenorship records. All county and township records will be checked by
the two examiners before a final report is submitted to the state bu-

RESTORE STATE

Biennial Budget Is Submitted By House Finance Committee

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Restoration of the salary reductions of state employees, necessitating an outlay of $3,000,000, is provided for
in the biennial state budget submitted by the house financial committee last night.
The appropriation measure calls
for $33,000,000 as compared with the $31,650,487 requested by Finance Director Howard L. Bevis.

However, Chairman Schwellen-
bach said today that the committee's revision of the budget represents a reduction of approximately $3,000-000. Excluding the salary reductions for which the finance director had been in effect the last two years.

Governor's Office Cut

The committee cut $15,000 from the requested amount for Governor Davy's office, suggesting that he get along with $131,000 in the next two years. The budget of Secretary of State George S. Myers was slowed $6,000 to $168,600.

Myers Tuesday submitted a revised budget for his office, cutting
by 10 per cent the amount he originally asked.

Kent and Bowling Green State
colleges and Wilberforce university
were the only educational institutions to be given cuts from the finance director's recommendations.
Others were given increases.

Kent was cut from $770,500 to $654,995; Bowling Green from $805,112 to $758,087 and Wilberforce from $604,750 to $570,250.
Ohio State university was increased
from $6,694,600 to $7,155,600; Ohio

LISBON, May 2.—When Ralph Go-

from Grace W. Catlin of Hartville,
according to a petition and an affidavit in attachment filed in common pleas court here. This loan was obtained Feb. 28 last.
Then on March 11 last, Godar obtained another loan of $400, it is charged.

The loans were to be repaid from
receipts of the event, but the petition declares nothing was paid. Godar then employed the plaintiff as cashier at a salary of $20 weekly,
starting March 15, but none of the salary has been paid, the petition relates.

Godar has now been made de-

affects of Godar in addition, Balmiville, have been attached under
an order issued to Sheriff Frank Ballantine.

Flays "Unscrupulous Re-

Treaty Deals

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, May 2.—
After adopting a series of
resolutions attacking virtually every phase of the new deal legislative program, the chamber of commerce of the United States today selected as
its new president Harper Sibley, Rochester, N. Y., banker
described by his associates as
somewhat critical of the administration policies.

By J. R. BRACKETT,
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Amid signs of hostility between President Roosevelt and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States,
Secretary of Commerce H. C. Hull
before the Business Men's convention today
attacked what he called "unscrupulous resistance" to the Roosevelt
program of lowering tariffs in negotiating reciprocal trade treaties.

The cabinet official in a prepared speech, criticized those business interests which, he said, bring "pressure" to bear in "fear that they are to be deprived of even a small part of the artificial advantage given
them by an over-indulgent government."

Sharp Break Seen
Signs widely interpreted as indicating a sharp break between the president and the organization of business men were seen by Washington observers as the convention
went into its final day.

President Roosevelt, reported
angry over sharp assaults which convention speakers have launched
against New Deal measures and
plans, omitted to send a message
to the chamber's annual dinner
last night. For years, the chamber has been accustomed to hear a speech or a message from the chief executive.

Authoritative sources said the
customary invitation to appear or send greetings had been extended to the president.

There was a tendency to regard
the present situation as one of the most significant developments in government-business relations since
the American Bankers association convention last year. The result of the bankers' convention was an apparent rapprochement widely
heralded at the time as a "peace
pact."

New Attitude Differs

If the chamber's formal resolutions should follow the tenor of the speechmaking, the results of this convention could be in sharp contrast with last year's "pact."

The chamber moved today to act
on a series of resolutions prepared by a committee. Washington watched to assay the truth of advance
reports that these resolutions would be adverse to pending NRA and AAA legislation and would raise
with criticism the banking and utility holding company legislation
which the president has placed on his "must" calendar.

The latest convention speaker to hammer at the new Deal was Henry J. Allen, former Republican
governor and senator from Kansas

According to a report filed with

Charles Kannal, county assessor of weights and measures, 696 gasoline
filling stations are located in this county, the total number of pumps
being 2,088.

This is an increase of 110 pumps
over the previous report.
The report also discloses that during the last six months, 11 new grocery stores were opened in the county.

In Good Company

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May
2.—The great argument with all Americans who want to join in with Europe and help
set the world right, was that
any one that was not in favor
of it was pretty narrow minded and selfish. In plain words,
it's the dumb folks that are
"agor" it.

Well, read today's papers.

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK

The program arranged in Salem for the annual observance of national music week indicates one of the most successful events of its kind in recent years.

Three outstanding features have been planned, the first a concert by the Music Study club members Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church. The second is a music festival at the high school auditorium Tuesday night in which representatives of practically all the musical organizations of the city will take part.

The third is the Community band's annual concert Thursday night, also at the high school auditorium.

With the exception of the Community band concert, the programs are free to the public. And the proceeds from the Community band event will go to good causes—improving Centennial park and buying equipment for the band.

There is no profit in the music week observance for anyone—that is—profit in the financial sense. There is an abundance of profit from the cultural standpoint. The people who make up the programs, arrange for the auditoriums, gather the musicians together and take care of countless other details, have only the results of their efforts as their sole reward, but are satisfied.

The majority of people recognize that music has a definite place in the community program and thus should make a special effort to attend the music week concert. That will please those who have worked to make the observance a success and the audiences are guaranteed value received in the way of entertainment, in return.

ANOTHER INVASION

Taxes are all right if the other fellow pays them. That is the first rule of taxation in the United States. It explains the amount of opposition to sales taxes, which everybody pays. It also explains the popularity of heavy income taxes, because relatively few persons are affected by them.

Estate taxes, under the rule, are bound to be popular, because the other fellow pays them. When Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau mentioned estate taxation as a likely way of raising money to pay the veterans' bonus he was on firm political ground. It looked like a chance to kill two birds with one stone, the wealthy and the bonus lobby.

Mr. Morgenthau's proposal looks better than it is, however. In the first place it would be another invasion of the states' field of taxation. The federal government's traditional tax policy has been to leave estate and inheritance taxes to the states. At present a complicated system of credits exists. In 1934 the yield of the federal estate tax was only $104,000,000, about 3 percent of total treasury receipts. The latest estimate places state returns at $150,000,000.

Obviously, federal estate taxes would not produce any considerable amount of revenue, even if rates were increased enormously. They could be increased, furthermore, only at the expense of the states, which themselves are seeking new sources of income. Like many painless proposals for letting the other fellow pay the bill, Secretary Morgenthau's estate taxes are weak in one particular—they wouldn't raise enough money to fill the demand.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, May 2—Herbert Winterspoon is off to a running start as the new head of the Metropolitan opera. His home-again touches are a welcome relief to the absurd pomposities of the retiring Gatti-Casazza. He is expected to humanize the opera, to bow as low to the gallery as the Horseshoe Circle.

Born in Buffalo, his 62 years have been varied. Although he started out to be a painter, most of his activities have been musical. He was an actor for a time in Germany, toured with several noted orchestras, served as first bass at the Met and has taught in many conservatories. Also lectured.

His first wife was a sister of Rupert Hughes and his second, Florence Hinkle, a soprano. He lives in a modest mid-town hotel and is one of the avenue's indistinguishable window shoppers. His friendships range from the crossing card to the biggest figures in art and music. Caruso loved him.

He came to the Metropolitan when it was expiring of inanition, a condition brought largely by stubborn refusal to ride with the modern current. He believes opera can stand alone without the Sam Insull and Otto Kahn. And risks his reputation to prove it.

I have become an 18 KARAT fan for the quintessential lunacies of Col. Stoopnagle and Budd on the radio. If there is any absurdity more hilarious than that sneering off-side voice as they come on the air yash-yashning "They haven't got a sponsor" I have not heard it. In keeping with the times, nothing they do makes sense, but their outrageous clowning does more to debunk sponsoring than a volume of serious treatises.

If Ruth Etting's adieu to broadcasting is not a lesser version of Bernhardt's farewell, she deserves a sweeping bow for an uncommon show of common sense. She goes out at her peak, bulwarked by a sizable fortune made possible by a commendable thrill. The type of off-key blue chansons of which she was an arch-priestess is turning the bend in the road. She steps out of her vehicle in time, well remembered, well liked.

Archibald MacLeish, who wrote the poetic drama of the depression, "Panic," while editing the dollar-a-copy magazine "Fortune," is the newest hall of the intelligentsia. Now a thin escapist with a bulging brow, he was nevertheless once a back for Yale and a swimmer of note. He is planning a stay in England to write a series on the reign of King George. Thus an editor who writes, too.

Incidentally, George Horace Lorimer was about the first distinguished editor to crack the notion editors could not write. He created a flurry with his "Letters of a Self Made Merchant to His Son." I used to wait at the depot for the 10 p. m. for them. But these were his best effort. Several other writing excursions after that fared badly by comparison. There are instances of established writers turning editors and in each case the ability to write was lost and never regained. Charlie Towne is an exception.

Paul and Margaret Whiteman have a pig-Latin gibberish they indulge on merry occasions and which is understandable to no one but themselves. Billy and Phyllis Seeman also have a double talk patter that's the despair of listeners-in. Sophie Tucker and Fannie Brice, as I remember, have a Yiddish jabber-work that can go on indefinitely and with mutual comprehension. Then there is the Russian actress Elena Miramova, who talks antipholically with her husband. She gives a subject of the sentence and he the predicate. Morris Gest and Cobble have a Chinese sing-song lingo they profess to understand.

Thingumabob: Opie Read is putting the finishing touches on "Satan's Side of It. The Autobiography of the Devil as Revealed to a Sinner." Rita Weisman recovered from an illness to find herself white haired. Vincent Astor never goes to a party without a present for the host or hostess. Marilyn Miller spends most of her time at parties jiggling.

Add memories: Warming the flannel night gown before the open grate at bed time. A package of Sen-Sen for the Saturday night date. Bronzed milkweed pods in the parlor. The hum of telegraph wires on a frosty morning. The assy who took a towel to the ole swimmin' hole. The ice tub in the cellar covered with carpet. The taste after dried leaf cigarettes. Shining shoes with banana peels. Sunday walks to the reservoir. Sitting on the cellar steps and looking sad a few days before the circus came to town.

I could cheer much louder for New York's finest if those in mid-town would take off their blinders passing clip-joints. These murderous dens, which sink to the depravity of preying on helpless drunks who are utter strangers in the city, are apparent to the most casual of wayfarers. It is inconceivable that a cop on a regular beat does not know about them. And if he does and does not act, he is abetting the most sordid of underworld games, only second to kidnapping.

Every writer has a favorite professional trick. The most antiquated is looking up a quotation and writing up to it. Smacks of vast learning. Discussing quotations, I am reminded of this one across a page of the New York American recently: "No man is my friend, no man is my enemy; every man is my teacher." One could build his whole life on that.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, May 3

The lunar as well as mutual aspects governing this day point to many important affairs, with great activity in "big business" or in co-operation with personages of high standing and prestige. Corporations, secret organizations or diplomatic circles may figure predominantly in such affairs, but in all be cautious in the signing of documents.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of high importance, with profitable connections and activities with corporations, big business and important persons. But be wise with funds and sign all writing with particular precaution.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, ambitious, versatile and talented, and is likely to rise to a fine station through its energy, popularity and craft.

The average citizen is one who reads the headline threatening economic disaster and says "My! My!" and turns to the funnies.—Buffalo News

Leukemia Disorder of the Blood

WIDESPREAD SYMPATHY and curiosity have been aroused by the recent story about a child whose body is gradually turning to stone. This unfortunate child is probably afflicted with an unusual variety of what the doctors call "leukemia."

Although leukemia has been known for years, the cause of the disease has never been discovered. It is a strange disorder of the blood in which there is a marked increase in white blood cells. As these cells increase in number there is a decrease in the red blood cells and a lessening of the amount of "hemoglobin," the coloring material of the blood.

Three Forms Of It
Until recently the victims of leukemia could be offered little relief. Today, medical men know that the disease exists in three different forms. Relief, certainly, and often complete cure are possible in some cases, but in other forms the outlook continues to be extremely grave.

Acute leukemia is the most dreaded form of the disease. In this type the number of white cells suddenly increases without any previous signs of illness. As a rule, young adults and children are afflicted with this form of leukemia.

The chronic form usually afflicts persons between 25 and 45 years of age. But there is another form known as "chronic lymphatic leukemia," which occurs in older persons, especially between the ages of 45 and 60 years. No definite rule can be laid down as to age limitation and it should be borne in mind that the disease may occur in infancy, children or at any other age.

Cases on Increase
There has been an astonishing increase in the number of cases of leukemia reported within the past six months. It is hoped that more benefit will be obtained from the many new forms of treatment recently advocated at the various medical conventions. But we can hardly look for a definite means of cure until the actual cause of the disease is discovered.

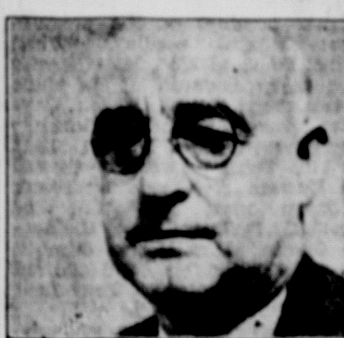

At present great relief is obtained by blood transfusions, the injection into the vessels of the blood of another person. This increases the strength of the victim and helps to ward off fatal complications. The donated fluid furnishes fresh blood cells and the needed hemoglobin. In many instances repeated transfusions bring about surprisingly good results.

A reader, Q.—What do you advise for colitis?
A.—Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

M. R. Q.—What should a girl of 15, 5 feet, 1 inch tall weigh?
A.—She should weigh about 105 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

The Cold Finger Curse

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

During a party at her home, Mrs. Violet Elderbank is murdered and her jewels stolen. Among the guests were her son, Jimmy Kirkman, her neighbors, and their tenants, Gregory Valcour, pseudo artist, Glenn Thurber, a newspaper reporter, and a dignified, Douglas W. Courtney, a statistician. Marjorie Clark, Thurber's fiancée and Roger's sister, a specialty dancer, are present. The crime occurred while the house was in darkness and drums were beating for Roger's Zulu dance. Violet had been summoned to a telephone in her bedroom. Her maid, Elsie, found her unresponsive and gagged. At that time Price Merriam, Violet's secretary and companion, who operated the lights for Roger's dance, had difficulty in turning them on after having put them out for Roger's entrance. Thurber disappeared during the performance to make a telephone call next door. Valcour had gone there to get some of his paint; for Elsie, the maid, claims she was busy in the kitchen when the telephone rang, but when Merriam and Cupples, the sister, state she was not there, according to Cupples the call came from the telephone office stating it had a message from Marjorie for Mrs. Elderbank. A checkup reveals there was no such call but that Glenn Thurber telephoned at 12:21. Thurber emphatically denies this. As he is about to let Darden into his room, Thurber discovers a key is missing. The reporter's fingerprints are found on Mrs. Elderbank's phone. Valcour claims that while he was in his studio getting the pictures, he saw Thurber come in, but did not see him go and again, nor did he hear Thurber telephoning. Roger tells the police he was putting the finishing touches to his make-up between 12:25 and 12:45 p. m., at the time the murder was committed.

CHAPTER XVI

Darden asked further questions which elicited the facts that Duane had been in New York a year and half that he had come on a tramp steamer from Liverpool, that when he had no dancing job he worked at Lerner's comb and brush factory around the corner. He gave the sergeant several references. He lived two blocks away.

"All right, you can go home," said Darden. "But don't change your job or your address without letting me know. Don't try any slandering."

"Any what, sir?"

"Don't try to get away."

"Why should I try to get away?"

There was injured innocence and a shade of mischief, too, in Roger's voice. "I'm rather enjoying being blackmailed by the police. If you'd arrest me—the prize windfall of a generation! Zulu Darden Held Go Theft Murder! Well, as you say, don't you agree?"

"I'm beat it," growled the sergeant, "or I'll put you where you can't have room for Zulu dancings."

Darden, weary and depressed, followed him into the hall and watched him depart. Then the sergeant went upstairs slowly and thoughtfully. In the hallway above him met P. Price Merriam. There was a sound of sobbing from the library.

"What's going on in there?" he queried of Merriam.

"It's the girl, Miss Clark. She's crying. Can't you talk to her soon, sergeant, so she may go home?"

"I'd be crying, too, if I were a friend of this bird Thurber. Tell me, I'll see her in a minute or two."

Something impelled Darden to go for a final inspection of the room in which the body of Violet Elderbank had been removed. The police man was still on guard there, silent and impassive. He nodded to Darden but did not speak.

The sergeant was preoccupied. He turned about the room with his hand thrust out in its odd chronic attitude of listening, but he was looking as well, and very minutely. He drew out his flashlight to aid him at the canopy bed. Its four legs upheld a silken canopy of blue, edged with stars sewn in gold. The sergeant with an exclamation stepped to one knee and trained his flashlight on an under-coverlet of light blue, tinted to match the decoration of the room. The outer spread had been disarranged in the removal of Violet Elderbank's body, and the coverlet exposed beneath it revealed a mark that interested Darden intensely.

On the otherwise spotless fabric was a broad black smear—as of soot or perhaps burnt cork.

Darden took the steps downward three at a bound. He saw two policemen still on guard at the stoop outside.

"That chap who just left," queried Darden swiftly, "the one who gave the name of Duane—which way did he go?"

"He went next door," replied one of the officers. "Went in the basement entrance—two-sixty-eight is the number."

"Good. See that he doesn't come out. Don't let anybody out until I get the house covered. I'm going to pin a couple of tails on this fellow Duane."

"Yes, sir," said the officer. "We've got you protected."

Darden telephoned for more plainclothesmen, but Detective Mabry returned just as he replaced the receiver.

"Pleased to meetcha," said Darden with ardor. "What luck with the phone people, Mabry?"

"That fellow was right," replied the detective. "Thurber, I mean. He used the public phone in the hall next door all right—he or somebody did—call clicked up eleven minutes past twelve."

"Hm. Well, maybe so," admitted Darden. "But that gave him plenty of time to beat it up to his apartment and phone there at twenty-one minutes past twelve. But why did he do that?"

"Afraid people would hear him talking in the hall downstairs, maybe. He didn't mind if anybody heard him call his office, but when he called Mrs. Elderbank's private number—"

"That's true. He knew this chap Valcour was downstairs, probably hoped he'd be overheard—that office call was a sort of an alibi. But Valcour says he didn't hear anybody telephoning."

"Then Valcour lied, or wasn't listening, or couldn't hear from where he was—because somebody used that phone at twelve-eleven and called the Amalgamated Press office."

"Damnation!" muttered Darden. "There's a lot of ins and outs to this funny business." He told Mabry about his new discovery in Mrs. Elderbank's bedroom.

"That dancer!" exclaimed Mabry. "No wonder you want the eye on him, sergeant. He was in on it, too—that looks like a cinch! Who else would have smeared the bedclothing with black that way? Made up with burnt cork and brushed against the bed. Any finger-prints besides?"

"Not that I could find, and I won't look away."

"All right, you can go home," said Darden. "But don't change your job or your address without letting me know. Don't try any slandering."

"Any what, sir?"

"Don't try to get away."

"Why should I try to get away?"

"Good. See that he doesn't come out. Don't let anybody out until I get the house covered. I'm going to pin a couple of tails on this fellow Duane."

"Yes, sir," said the officer. "We've got you protected."

Darden telephoned for more plainclothesmen, but Detective Mabry returned just as he replaced the receiver.

"Pleased to meetcha," said Darden with ardor. "What luck with the phone people, Mabry?"

"That fellow was right," replied the detective. "Thurber, I mean. He used the public phone in the hall next door all right—he or somebody did—call clicked up eleven minutes past twelve."

"Hm. Well, maybe so," admitted Darden. "But that gave him plenty of time to beat it up to his apartment and phone there at twenty-one minutes past twelve. But why did he do that?"

"Afraid people would hear him talking in the hall downstairs, maybe. He didn't mind if anybody heard him call his office, but when he called Mrs. Elderbank's private number—"

"That's true. He knew this chap Valcour was downstairs, probably hoped he'd be overheard—that office call was a sort of an alibi. But Valcour says he didn't hear anybody telephoning."

"Then Valcour lied, or wasn't listening, or couldn't hear from where he was—because somebody used that phone at twelve-eleven and called the Amalgamated Press office."

"Damnation!" muttered Darden. "There's a lot of ins and outs to this funny business." He told Mabry about his new discovery in Mrs. Elderbank's bedroom.

"That dancer!" exclaimed Mabry. "No wonder you want the eye on him, sergeant. He was in on it, too—that looks like a cinch! Who else would have smeared the bedclothing with black that way? Made up with burnt cork and brushed against the bed. Any finger-prints besides?"

"Not that I could find, and I won't look away."

"All right, you can go home," said Darden. "But don't change your job or your address without letting me know. Don't try any slandering."

"Any what, sir?"

"Don't try to get away."

"Why should I try to get away?"

There was injured innocence and a shade of mischief, too, in Roger's voice. "I'm rather enjoying being blackmailed by the police. If you'd arrest me—the prize windfall of a generation! Zulu Darden Held Go Theft Murder! Well, as you say, don't you agree?"

"I'm beat it," growled the sergeant, "or I'll put you where you can't have room for Zulu dancings."

Darden, weary and depressed, followed him into the hall and watched him depart. Then the sergeant went upstairs slowly and thoughtfully. In the hallway above him met P. Price Merriam. There was a sound of sobbing from the library.

"What's going on in there?" he queried of Merriam.

"It's the girl, Miss Clark. She's crying. Can't you talk to her soon, sergeant, so she may go home?"

Something impelled Darden to go for a final inspection of the room in which the body of Violet Elderbank had been removed. The police man was still on guard there, silent and impassive. He nodded to Darden but did not speak.

The sergeant was preoccupied. He turned about the room with his hand thrust out in its odd chronic attitude of listening, but he was looking as well, and very minutely. He drew out his flashlight to aid him at the canopy bed. Its four legs upheld a silken canopy of blue, edged with stars sewn in gold. The sergeant with an exclamation stepped to one knee and trained his flashlight on an under-coverlet of light blue, tinted to match the decoration of the room. The outer spread had been disarranged in the removal of Violet Elderbank's body, and the coverlet exposed beneath it revealed a mark that interested Darden intensely.

On the otherwise spotless fabric was a broad black smear—as of soot or perhaps burnt cork.

Darden took the steps downward three at a bound. He saw two policemen still on guard at the stoop outside.

"That chap who just left," queried Darden swiftly, "the one who gave the name of Duane—which way did he go?"

"He went next door," replied one of the officers. "Went in the basement entrance—two-sixty-eight is the number."

"Good. See that he doesn't come out. Don't let anybody out until I get the house covered. I'm going to pin a couple of tails on this fellow Duane."

DOCTORS AND DIETITIANS RECOMMEND LAXATIVE PRINCIPLE IN PRUNE JUICE

New Bread Containing this Natural Laxative
... Recommended Even for Babies ...
Will Help "Keep You Regular"

WARNING! ONLY USE CATHARTICS WHEN YOUR PHYSICIAN TELLS YOU TO!

Prune juice is one of the very first laxative foods doctor allows baby to have when his little system needs regulating. That's because its gentle laxative action is perfectly safe even for so delicate a case.

This same gentle, natural regulating effect is now obtainable in a delicious loaf of bread which you can serve your family at every meal. It's called PRUN-O-WHEAT BREAD. You can get it at your grocery store.

The regulating agent in PRUN-O-WHEAT BREAD is this same natural laxative principle which doctors and dietitians recommend in prune juice, combined with tasty flaked wheat. PRUN-O-WHEAT BREAD is not "spiked" with cathartic drugs or medicine. It contains no secret ingredients... only pure, wholesome natural foods. Read at the right, exactly what each loaf contains.

TRY 14-DAY TEST

PRUN-O-WHEAT BREAD is a delightful treat for any meal... eat it whenever you wish for its fine, fruity, nut-like flavor. BUT you must eat it regularly with each meal for its natural laxative benefits. Try it for 14 days... you'll be amazed at the results. Ask your grocer for a loaf, today.

High Ohio Court Hands Down Rules

COLUMBUS, May 2.—The Ohio supreme court stood today behind the law requiring stockholders in building and loan associations to pay double liability on their stock. The court upheld the law by refusing to review a decision of a district court of appeals affirming the verdict of a Knox county court. Ed N. Vance, executive of the estate of Sarah E. Debolt, Centerburg, had contested the law. Overruling the appeal of Russell Swager, 21, the court set May 22 for his electrocution for slaying Harold Fleming, a Zanesville filling station attendant, in a robbery. Counsel for the youth sought to show he was mentally weak. The court upheld the village of Washington, Fayette county, in its fight to avoid payment of $10,200 which the Ohio Water company claims is due for service rendered in 1933. Lower court decisions sustaining a demurrer by the village were affirmed.

Violence Flares In Brewery Strike

SANDUSKY, May 2.—Police squads with sawed-off shotguns and tear gas patrolled the district surrounding the plant of the Cleveland & Sandusky Brewing company today following a clash between strikers and non-striker last night. The brewery reopened yesterday after being closed for more than a week due to a strike called by brewery workers. The strike grew out of jurisdictional dispute between the beer and beverage drivers' union and the brewery workers' union. The clash last night came after strikers had attempted to induce strike breakers to leave the plant. Police arrested two men suspected of throwing a tear gas bomb during the outbreak. The bomb struck the windshield of an automobile and Mrs. C. R. Likes received slight lacerations. A small child was struck in the eye by a piece of glass. All police off duty were called to patrol the district.

University from $1,253,000 to $1,265,000 and Miami from $1,146,020 to $1,243,520.

Other Budgets Increase

The budget of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans home was increased from $1,231,267 to $1,279,560; the Ohio experimental station from $26,100 to $27,500, and the bureau of lakes and parks from $193,816 to $325,475. The welfare department budget showed an increase of $111,000, chiefly for restoration of normal salaries of employees.

On the suggestion of Governor Davey, it is reported, the board of examination and classification, operated in connection with Ohio penitentiary and other penal and correctional institutions will be abolished July 1. Chairman P. H. Rogers (R., Laar), chairman of the welfare section, said he had been advised by Assistant Welfare Director Oakley G. Spaght that the governor had requested that it be abolished.

Old Gray Mare Is Victim of Yawns

NEBRASKA CITY, Nebr., May 2.—The old gray mare of Louis Stahli of Nebraska City, which has been yawning since Saturday, showed signs of improvement. P. E. Ziegenbein, veterinarian, said the mare had shown a change of pace in that her yawns were becoming less frequent.

In the Bag

AS FAR as the United States Lawn Tennis association is concerned, everything is "in the bag" except the International Davis cup and that may become part of Uncle Samuel's official baggage with a few timely breaks.

The entire personnel of the squad which will go to England in June in quest of the elusive trophy—contingent of course, on America's conquest of two opponents in the zone matches in Mexico City this month—has been selected.

Captained by Wear
The team will be shepherded by Joseph W. Wear of Philadelphia, who guided the American net contingent in 1928 and has been named successor to H. Norris Williams, non-playing 1934 captain.

Five players were named as likely members of the squad. They are: William Allison of Austin, Texas; and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, ranked No. 1, and No. 2 in the nation; J. Donald Budge of San Francisco; C. Gene Mako of Los Angeles and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia.

The first four are virtually certain of making the trip to England to meet the winner of the European zone qualification round. Van Ryn's berth depends on his business.

Under tentative plans the squad will arrive in England for practice and competition in the Queen's club tournament beginning June 17, as final preparation for the British championship tournament at Wimbledon June 14 to July 6.

Owens Will Show
Home Folks How
To Run Saturday

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, May 2.—Jesse Owens, sensational Ohio State sprinter and jumper, who holds a host of track records of one kind or another, will make his home debut Saturday night at the Buckeye stadium as the Scarlet and Gray thin-clad, tangled with the Irish of Notre Dame in a dual meet. Owens will take part in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the broad jump, his three specialties. He will be supported by Coach Larry Snyder's entire track squad.

The Notre Dame entrants will be headed by Vince Murphy, high jumper and hurdler. Don Elzer, who won the shot putt at the Penn relays last week with a heave of more than 50 feet, is almost certain of a first place, while Mike Loggins, brother of Elmer, the football coach at Notre Dame, is one of the outstanding hurdlers in the Midwest.

Owens may have an easy time of it in the dashes, but the Irish will present a broad jumper in Meagher who will make the Cleveland flash extend himself. Meagher has bettered 24 feet in competition several times.

The meet will mark the lone home appearance of the Buckeye tracksters this year.

Johnson's Tribe Is Unshakeable Pace-Setter In The American League

Cleveland Indians
Beat Closest Rival,
White Sox, 11 To 5

Willis Hudlin Goes Full Route For Indians, Granting Eight Hits and Having Only One Bad Inning; Earl Averill and Hal Trosky Connect

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer
Unless they crack up when the eastern teams start their first inter-sectional invasion, the Cleveland Indians appear set to remain at the head of the American league for some time.

Despite the absence of Billy Knickerbocker, flashy young shortstop, and weak hitting by some others, Walter Johnson's team already has repulsed two strong challengers over an early lack of scoring and gained strength as the pitchers continued to perform consistently.

In their first three games the Indians had to play 41 innings for a total of six runs. Then they swung into action at bat and have fallen below the five-run mark only twice in eight starts.

Facing their closest rivals, the Chicago White Sox, yesterday in the only game left of the series after rain and cold weather got through, the Redmen belted out an 11 to 5 decision to increase their lead to a full game.

They started scoring in the first inning, chased Sam Jones to cover in the fifth when the totals reached nine blows and eight runs, and kept on against young Joe Vance. Willis Hudlin went the full route for Cleveland, granting eight hits, and having only one bad inning.

To make the prospect brighter, Earl Averill snapped out of his hitting slump with a home run, double and single and Hal Trosky belted his fourth homer.

Cleveland's threat from the New York Yankees, a game and a half behind in third place, was lessened when the Yanks failed to survive Washington's ninth inning rally and went down 7-6 to see their winning streak ended at six starts.

The Red Sox also won on a ninth inning spurt, scoring twice off Charley Lieber to beat the Athletics 8 to 6, after coming from behind with pairs of runs in the seventh and eighth.

The Giants finally broke the Brooklyn spell to increase their margin of leadership in the National League with an 8 to 3 triumph over the Dodgers. The Terrymen had an easy time behind Roy Parmelee's fine hurling.

Dizzy Dean lifted the Cardinals into fourth place in the other National League contest by hurling a six-hit, 5-2 triumph over the Reds. Digs gave only three hits in the first seven frames but eased up after Joe Medwick's four-ply wallop had started the Cards off well ahead.

Rain and cold weather kept the other four National League clubs and Detroit and St. Louis in the American, idle.

WHITNEY ENTRY
KENTUCKY DERBY
POST FAVORITE

Probable Starters For Horse Classic Diminishes To 16

(By Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—The probable starters in Saturday's $40,000 added Kentucky Derby diminished to sixteen today with C. V. Whitney's colt "Today" looking like the post time favorite.

On the Whitney entry seem apt to be 3 to 1 or shorter. He is scheduled, like all the other probable starters except Nellie Flag, to carry 126 pounds in the mile and a quarter classic. Nellie Flag, a filly owned by Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, is entitled to go with five pounds less. Jockey R. Workman is scheduled to ride "Today."

Col. E. R. Bradley is relying on a single colt to bring home the honors in the sixty-first derby. This is Boxhorn, which flashed over the full derby distance in 2:06 4-5 yesterday.

Trainer Well Pleased
No other Derby candidate has approached this time, so far as has been reported by clockers.

"Today's" latest work was a mile and an eighth in 1:55 1-5. Trainer Jack Healy expressed himself as well pleased with "Today's" condition. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye made his last spin with Jockey Sylvio Coucel, who will ride in the Derby in the saddle.

He was tabbed for the full derby route in 2:10.
Mrs. Charles Hainsworth's Blackbird covered the mile and a quarter in 2:08.

Another leisurely derby route workout yesterday was that of William Woodward's Omaha, which was timed in 2:10. Paced by Gallant Prince the scuffling Omaha, was making his first trip on the Churchill Downs oval.

State Polo Team
To Meet Alabama

COLUMBUS, May 2.—Ohio State University's polo team will open its outdoor season here Friday afternoon, meeting the riders of Alabama Poly at the stadium field.

The second game of the series will be played at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.
The Southerners, on tour of the mid-west, will arrive Thursday and depart shortly after Saturday's match for Columbia, Mo., where they will play next week.

Lieut. John Murphy, coaching his last polo team at Ohio State before returning in August to active duty in Hawaii, predicted today his team will win.

HANNIBAL, Mo.—A nation-wide essay contest on the subject, Mark Twain, has been opened to children under 15 years by the Samuel Clemens centennial committee. Essays must be under 300 words in length. The contest will close next Oct. 15. Manuscripts may be mailed to the Hannibal Chamber of Commerce.

Heads Bowling Team Here Friday

Frankie Lettiera, among Ohio's leading pin-crashers and recent winner over Joe Falcera, New York claimant to the world match game champion, will be seen in action when a crew of Youngstown All-Star bowlers meet the Ford V-8's star road team at the Masonic Temple Friday night.

Lettiera has rolled three perfect 300 games during the past season and, in four leagues, has an aggregate average of 272. He was one of twelve Youngstown bowlers to finish in the money in the ABC at Syracuse.

Another noted Youngstown bowling star, George Vallos, who cracks out 300 scores with regularity, will roll with the visitors. The three others with Vallos and Lettiera are not so good, their publicity man announces. They average only a paltry 180 or 190—the weaklings.

The Youngstown-Ford battle will climax a double bill scheduled for the evening.
The Salem News City league squad will grapple with the Youngstown Telegram reglers in the other half of the twin bill, this being a return match. The Youngstowners drew first blood in the opening setto, winning by a 58-pin margin.

Action is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

Salem Night Relays
Expected to Attract Between 400-500 Boys

Lisbon, Lowellville, Canfield, Latest Entries Into Local Track and Field Classic Saturday; East Palestine Looms As Favorite

A classy array of track and field athletes are certain to be drawn into action at the Salem Night Relays here Saturday afternoon and evening at Reilly field.

The entry list of 30 schools from all over this section of the state assures a wide group of versatile cindermen. Three new schools, Lisbon, High and Lowellville and Canfield of Mahoning county today bolstered the number of schools entered for the relays to 29.

A display of trophies and medals which will be presented winners on Saturday, went on display today in the Ohio Edison Company windows, Cleveland Lincoln, winner of last year's meet, yesterday, returned the rotating statue trophy which it has had in its possession for a year. The trophy awaits the winner of the current meet.

High School Principal Wilbur J. Springer, manager of the relays, today said he expected between 400 and 500 athletes to participate. Included among the schools favored to cop the tourney is East Palestine. The little Columbiana county school already this spring has captured the annual tri-county meet held here and the tri-state track meet at Wheeling last Saturday. Akron East is probably the favorite of the four Akron schools entered. Cleveland Shaw always proves herself a threat.

Indians Scalp 12 Ball Clubs
Indianapolis Two Games Ahead In American Association

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 2.—The Indianapolis Indians were still on the warpath today with 2 scalps dangling from their belts and a full two-game lead tucked away in the American association pennant fight.

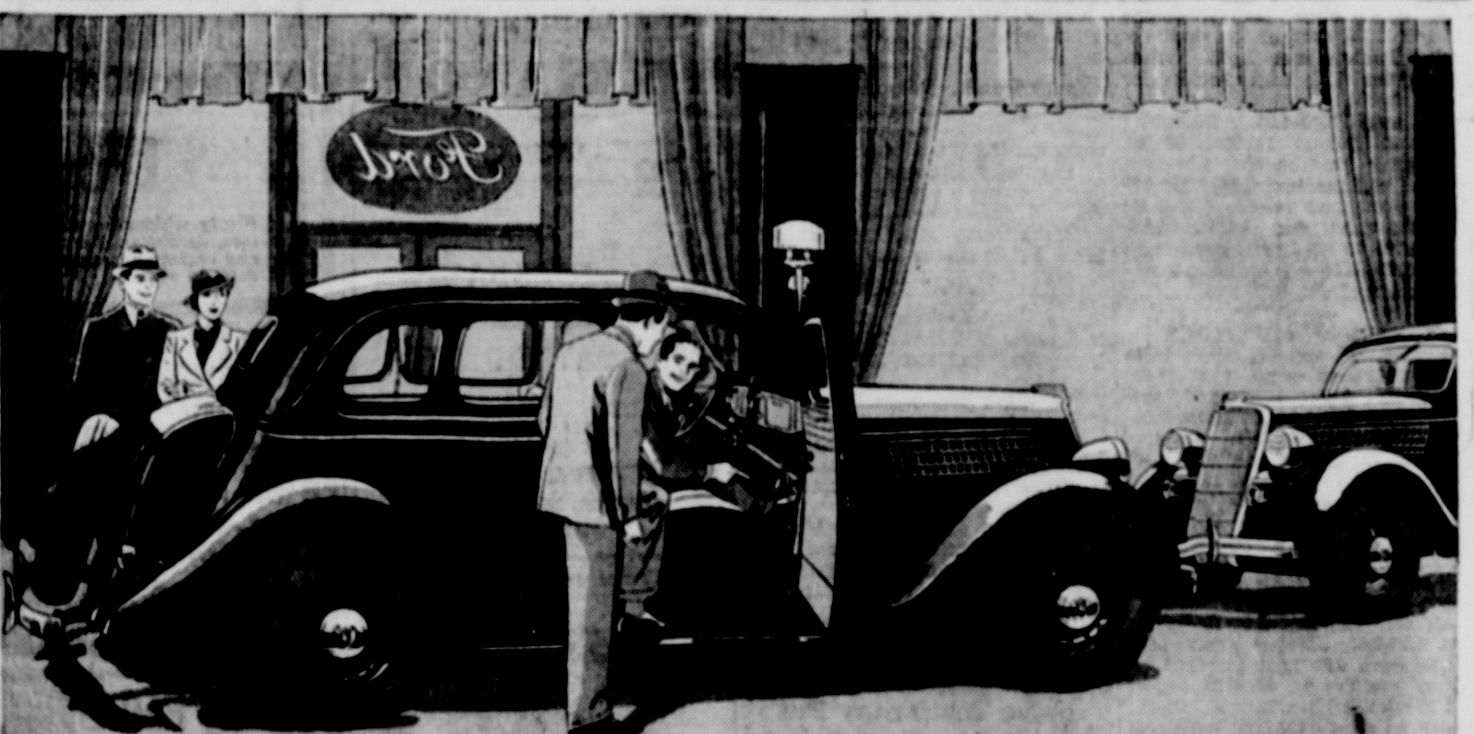

A far more formidable looking team today than in 1934, when they finished in the second division, the Indians increased their hold on first place yesterday by routing the fumbling Louisville Colonels, 10 to 5, while Toledo plucked off the second place Columbus Red Birds, 10 to 3. It was the third in a row for the Indians.

A 13-hit attack, coupled with three costly infield errors, netted Toledo its victory over Columbus. Stein was nipped for 11 hits, but was given a good lead which he held. A four run attack in the eighth, featured by Bobby Allaire triple with the bases loaded, clinched the victory.

Rain and cold weather caused postponement of the other games in the circuit yesterday. No games were scheduled today.

700 In Ohio Relays

"Now, about BRAKES..."

"Just look at this — the brakes on this new Ford V-8 have more braking surface per pound of car weight than you'll find on any other car less than $1095.

"Also, Ford is using full 12-inch brake drums, so you need less pressure on the pedal to do the job inside the brake.

"And more than that, Ford uses big 6 x 16-inch air balloon tires, so that your Ford brakes get a good grip on the road—any road!"

YOUR Ford dealer will answer your questions today as he answers the brake question above . . . with facts, not general claims.

Safety?—Besides the bigger and better new Ford brakes, there's a welded all-steel body, a low, rigid, double channel X-type frame, welded steel-spoke wheels. There's even safety glass all around on all new Fords at no extra cost!

Comfort and room?—You'll find more room in this Ford V-8 than in many cars costing hundreds of dollars more. New weight distribution and the new 123½-inch springbase make this possible—and with it, a "front-seat ride" for every passenger.

Thrifty operation?—Economy of the V-8 Ford engine is proved by now—and new refinements make this one even easier on gas and oil. New parts and labor always cost little on a Ford V-8, and few adjustments are ever needed. Go to your Ford dealer today. See this car. Drive it. Question it. You'll find the best answers to all your questions in the Ford V-8 itself.

A Review of the Day's News
By Arthur Brisbane

SEBRING, Fla., May 2.—Canada, hearing of a proposed U. S. "canal" near her border, "asks for information. The state department gladly will supply it."

No military forts separate the two countries, no battleships on the great lakes. Inhabitants on both sides, being civilized, have no idea of attacking each other, neither craves what the other owns.

Some day, let us hope, the two countries will be one, by mutual agreement, or Canada might annex the United States in a friendly way, if that were more acceptable, a majority of voters ruling.

The North American continent, from the Mexican border to the north pole, should be one nation, or if Mexico and others would come in, all the way down to the Panama canal, so much the better.

There will be no war between this country and any part of the British empire. Common sense forbids it. Any air base of ours would probably be as useful to Canada as to ourselves, and we should be delighted to see Canada establish a string of air bases to the north of us, especially along her Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

The President, with all the other things he has on hand, takes seriously the question of national air defense and the project for a ring of air bases all around the coast of the United States, with sufficient planes at each to make a continuous ring of air fighters all around our coasts.

Nobody goes near a hornet's nest intentionally. If other nations saw this country surrounded by a ring of airplane hornet's nests they would be inclined to keep away.

Secretary Morgenthau, never in business as a banker, interested personally in farming more than in money, has shown the outside world, to its surprise, that he can make the American dollar keep its place in the procession, regardless of many billions of bond issues, no gold basis, and other novelties.

Members that ordinarily enjoy speculation in "exchange" are afraid of the American dollar. And curiously, while some Americans are sending money to other countries, to make it "safe", foreigners and especially Britishers are investing more and more heavily in the United States.

Mahoning Canal Labeled "Half Job" By Steel Company

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, May 2.—The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation issued a statement today favoring a canal between the Ohio river and the Great Lakes, but opposing the canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers to Struthers, O.

The steel company said the proposed Beaver-Mahoning project would be of no value to the nation as a whole and urged the "construction of a canal between the Ohio river and the Great Lakes along the route determined to be the most feasible, provided that the entire waterway is undertaken and completed at one time as one project."

"We are opposed to this partial project," the statement said, "for the reason that if the opportunity passes to obtain the entire canal, this half job alone will be of no economic value to the nation as a whole, will afford no advantages to shippers and receivers of freight, outside the narrow circle of the industries surrounding the Struthers terminal and possibly some coal interests in the Pittsburgh district." and in no way will contribute in proportion to its cost."

The corporation said that the "whole canal" would afford greater commercial possibilities for Cleveland, Chicago, Buffalo and other lake ports, giving them a "river-side" location.

U. S. Civil Service Exams Are Called

HOSPITAL DAY'S ORIGIN IS TOLD

Originator Reveals Idea and Motives Behind Observance

National Hospital day has scored such an outstanding international success that many times the question has been asked, "How did National Hospital day begin?"

Here's the story, as told by the man who originated the day, Matthew Foley, of Chicago, Editor of "Hospital Management."

"Early in March, 1921, while looking through business magazines I was struck by an editorial in one journal which said that in every field there is some idea or project for advancing that field that everyone ought to get behind."

"I put that journal down with the thought that there ought to be some idea to help the hospital field. Then I ran onto a copy of a bulletin issued by the Humane society. This issue told of the forthcoming celebration of 'Be Kind to Dumb Animals Week.'"

"Connecting the two ideas I thought, 'If dumb animals can have a whole week, why can't the work of the hundreds of thousands of men and women relieving pains and suffering in hospitals and restoring men, women and children to health have at least one day?'"

"That thought was the foundation of National Hospital day."

"The question of a date was settled when Florence Nightingale's name came to mind as one whom the hospitals might honor, as well as the nurses, and May 12, her birthday, came at a time in the year when good weather may be expected."

"The choosing of this day was particularly appropriate, for no one other person has contributed as much as Florence Nightingale to modern hospitalization. Born in Florence, Italy, May 2, 1820, of wealthy English parents, she met parental opposition when she wanted to enter a hospital for training, and her parents were not entirely reconciled to her choice of a profession until 1853 when she became superintendent of an establishment for gentle-women during illness in London."

Volunteers For Duty
She held this position a year when the Crimean war broke out and soon all England was aghast when it learned of conditions in the military hospitals at Scutari. Miss Nightingale's offer to go to Scutari crossed in the mail a letter from her friend Sidney Herbert, secretary of war, asking her to go. With 38 nurses she went to Scutari and there began the work which has left such a great impression on the world.

The first school of nursing in which her ideas were put into execution under her direction was that connected with St. Thomas hospital, London, which was opened June 21, 1863, with 15 probationers. She was first recognized as an authority on hospital construction in 1859, when her "Notes on Hospitals" was published. It opened a new era of hospital reform and following its publication she was deluged with requests for advice on the building of new hospitals and reconstruction of old ones.

Florence Nightingale died at the age of 90 years, having lived to see the new profession for which she was responsible firmly established and many modern hospitals operating under her plans.

Checks Distributed By Relief Office

New Edition of "Gold Diggers" Will Open At State Theater Here Friday

"Gold Diggers of 1935", opening at the State theater Friday, is directed by Busby Berkeley, the musical comedy genius. The story was written by Robert Lord and Peter Milne and is a play within a play.

Dick Powell is a medical student who clerks at a fashionable hotel during his vacations. At the hotel as guests are Alice Brady, a wealthy widow, her daughter, Gloria Stuart, and Frank McHugh, Alice Brady sponsors a milk fund show at the hotel with Adolph Menjou producing it. Winifred Shaw, former musical comedy star, sings, Ramon and Routs, famous dancing team, perform and Dick Powell also sings several catchy tunes including, "I'm Going Shopping With You", "The Words Are In My Heart" and "Lullaby of Broadway."

The picture introduces an entirely different type of gold digging. Alice Brady does the paying while the gold digging is done by Adolph Menjou, producer of her milk fund show, and Joseph Cawthorn, the scenery and costume designer.

Busby Berkeley is said to have created unique and unusual numbers. One of them is a dance in which 90 white grand pianos are vort on the stage. There are beautiful girls in the ensemble with lots of peppy tunes.

The complete starring cast includes Dick Powell, Gloria Stuart, Alice Brady, Adolph Menjou, Joseph Cawthorn, Glenda Farrer, Frank McHugh and Hugh Herbert. Tonight only at the State, "Gold Diggers of 1935", a jungle picture, will be shown. This has Jack Holt, Fay Wray and Dorothy Burgess in the cast. The plot deals with the mystic rituals of voodooism and is adapted from Clements Riddle's Cosmopolitan story "Haiti Moon."
